

New Postal Museum Opening 28th July 2017

Explore the history of Post. Find out about stamps, messages, telegraphs and how British Postal Communications shaped the world.

Opening in Mid July 2017 the new museum and heritage attraction in Clerkenwell, London will reveal stories from five centuries of Britain's remarkable, and often curious, social and communications history through the eyes of one of its most iconic services.

Visitors will also have the chance to travel 70 feet under London to ride Mail Rail, the post office's forgotten railway.

To watch the video clip of Mail Rail in action and other historic video clips from the Postal Museum using the link below, and click on Explore Mail Rail then play the video, when prompted click on another clip to see all the Postal Museum video clips.
